Only candidates who complete their admission application file within the specified period of the current session will be included in the final rankings.

In each session, after each entrance test, lists with the grades obtained by the candidates will be published.

Additional information for the first admission session:

For candidates who register in the first admission session for the Type I competition, a mock entrance exam will be organized on May 23, 2026. Candidates who participate in the mock exam and obtain at least grade 5 may choose one of the following options:

1. Use the grade obtained in the mock exam to calculate the admission average, without participating in the entrance exam on July 17, 2026.
2. Participate in the entrance exam on July 17, 2026. In this case, the higher grade obtained in the two tests (the mock exam or the entrance exam) will be used to calculate the admission average.

The grade obtained in the mock entrance exam from the first admission session can only be used to calculate the admission average for this admission session.

For undergraduate studies – full-time education, the first admission session begins before the baccalaureate exam takes place, and the stage of uploading the baccalaureate certificate/diploma to the admission platform will take place after the final results of the baccalaureate exam are announced.

After the baccalaureate exam results are published, candidates who wish to remain in the competition at the Faculty of Engineering during the first admission session must upload to the admission platform a copy of the baccalaureate diploma/certificate, fill in the grades obtained in the baccalaureate exam, and re-finalize their admission file during the period July 13, 10:00 – July 16, 2026, 12:00.

Only candidates who complete their admission application file within the specified period of the current session will be included in the final rankings.
